Objective and Characteristics of the Fund

Objective of the Fund

The Fund seeks to achieve a NAV that closely correlates with the movement of the Nikkei 225 by investing in shares of the component stocks of the Nikkei 225, and maintaining, in principle, a portfolio constructed consistent with the calculation method of the Nikkei 225.

*The Nikkei 225 is an equity index developed by Nikkei Inc., and is calculated using 225 stocks representing the equity market from the component stocks of the First Section of the Tokyo Stock Exchange. The Nikkei 225 is a Dow-style adjusted price-weighted average, and the divisor is adjusted as required to maintain continuity.

$$\text{Nikkei 225} = \frac{\text{Combined price of the 225 stocks used in the index}}{\text{Divisor}}$$

*The current calculation method began in 1950 and retroactively calculated back to 1949. The Nikkei 225 is the oldest Japanese stock index, and is well known among market participants in Japan and abroad. The component shares are adjusted yearly based on market liquidity and sector balance. It is also reviewed based on the merging of component share and delisting.

Characteristics of the Fund

1. This Fund aims to achieve investment returns that link with the movement of Nikkei 225.

- This Fund aims to match the change in net assets per trust asset unit with the rate of change in "Nikkei 225" and in principle invest in the equities that make up the "Nikkei 225".

* The investment management described above may not be carried out due to market and financial conditions.

2. Units are listed on Tokyo Stock Exchange and can be traded at any time during trading hours.

- Units may be traded in blocks of 1 unit (as of the date when the securities registration statement was filed).
- The brokers determine trading commissions.
- The method of trading is generally the same as that for stocks.

*Please contact your broker for further information.

3. Units are subscribed for with cash.

- Units are subscribed using the NAV on the day the subscription is accepted.

4. Units may be redeemed for cash before maturity with a request for exchange.

- Units may be redeemed by the NAV on the day redemption is accepted.

5. Units may not be exchanged for stocks.

Main Investment Restrictions

- There is no restriction as to the investment ratio in stocks.
- There is no restriction as to the investment ratio for assets denominated in foreign currency.

Distribution Policy

- As a general rule, the full amount of dividends and other income arising from the trust assets is distributed after deduction of expenses.

*There is no guarantee for the amount and payment of dividends in the future.

Investment Risks

The major risks associated with investment in the Fund are outlined below. Investors should ensure they carefully examine and understand fully these risks before deciding to subscribe to units of the Fund.

Factors that contribute to fluctuations in the NAV

Investors are not guaranteed the investment principal that they commit. Investors may incur a loss and the value of their investment principal may fall below par as the result of a decline in NAV. All profits and losses arising from investments in the Fund belong to the investors (beneficiaries). This Fund is different from saving deposit.

The Fund invests primarily in stocks. The NAV of the Fund may fall and investors may suffer a loss due to a decline in stock prices or deterioration in the financial conditions and business performance of an equity issuer. Investors may also incur losses due to exchange rate fluctuations when investing in assets denominated in foreign currencies.

Major risks are as follows:

Price Fluctuation Risk

- Stock prices fluctuate as they are affected by information on the company's growth rate and profitability as well as changes in such information. They also fluctuate as they are affected by economic and political conditions in Japan and abroad. There is a risk that the Fund will suffer material losses if unexpected changes occur in stock price or liquidity.

Liquidity Risk

- The Fund may incur unexpected losses when the size of the market or trading volumes is small. The purchase and sale prices of securities are influenced by trading volume, resulting in the risks that they cannot be traded at prices expected to be realized in light of the prevailing market trend, sold at the estimated prices, or that the trading volume is limited regardless of the level of prices.

Credit Risk

- There is a risk that the Fund will incur material losses in the event of a serious crisis that directly or indirectly affects the business of a corporation in which the Fund invests. The prices of stocks of issuers may substantially decline (possibly to zero) due to fears of default or corporate bankruptcy, which can contribute to decline in the Fund NAV.

Foreign Currency Risk

- For foreign currency-denominated assets, generally if the foreign exchange market moves so that the yen appreciates against the currency in which the concerned assets are held, the fund's NAV may depreciate as a result.

Security-lending Risk

- Lending securities involves counterparty risks, which are the risks of contractual default or cancellation following bankruptcy, etc., by the counterparty. As a result, the Fund may suffer unexpected losses. Following the default or cancellation of a lending agreement, when liquidation procedures are implemented by using the collateral that is set aside in the lending agreement, the procurement cost of buying back the securities can surpass the collateral value, due to price fluctuations in the market. In such cases, the Fund is required to pay the difference, which may cause the Fund to incur losses.

Discrepancy factors between the Nikkei 225 and the NAV

The Fund seeks to match the NAV volatility with that of the Nikkei 225, but it cannot guarantee that movements will be consistent with the Index for the following reasons:

- The Fund may be subjected to market impact when buying or selling individual stocks as it adjusts its portfolio in response to changes in the stocks that comprise the Nikkei 225 and capital changes among corporations. In addition, the Fund will incur various expenses, including trust fees, brokerage commissions, and audit fees.
- The management fee from lending securities or dividends of incorporated issues.
- When derivatives transactions such as futures are made, there may be disparity between the price movements of such transactions and that of some or all of the constituents of the Nikkei 225.

Discrepancy between the market prices at which stocks are traded on exchanges and the NAV

The Fund is listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange and the units are traded on that exchange. The market price of the units is affected primarily by the demand for the Fund, its performance, and how attractive it is to investors in comparison with their other investments. It is not possible to predict whether the units will sell in the market above or below the NAV.

*Factors that contribute to NAV fluctuations are not limited to those listed above.

Additional Considerations

- The provisions stipulated in Article 37-6 of the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (the "cooling-off period") is not applicable to Fund transactions.
- This Fund differs from deposits or insurance policies in that it is not protected by the Deposit Insurance Corporation of Japan or the Policyholders Protection Corporation of Japan. Furthermore, the Japan Investor Protection Fund will not pay any compensation for units purchased from registered financial institutions, such as banks.

Risk Management System

- The departments in charge of risk management and compliance perform the evaluation and analysis of risks and performance, risk management, and monitoring of the status of compliance with laws, and are independent from fund management departments.
- To maintain an appropriate management system, the department in charge of risk management and compliance will report and make proposals to the committees associated with risk management and compliance, and instruct fund management departments to take corrective actions as necessary.

*The system described above is as of end of January 2021, and may be subject to change in the future.

Tax Treatment

Tax treatment for Japanese individual investors

1) Taxation upon sale of units

- Gains on sale (capital gains) are deemed to be income from transfer and thus have to be filed to declare for separate taxation at 20.315%. When a beneficiary has chosen a designated account with tax withholding (an account with tax withholding at the taxpayer's option), tax will be withheld at source at 20.315%. (As a general rule, tax filing is not necessary.)

2) Taxation upon receipt of income distributions

- Income distributions are regarded as dividend income, and tax is withheld at source at 20.315%. (As a general rule, tax filing is not necessary.) You can also file a tax return, and choose either separated taxation, based on declaration, or consolidated taxation (under which dividends received deduction will not apply).

3) Tax on Cancellation and Termination Fee

- Gains upon cancellation or termination (capital gains) are deemed to be income from transfer and thus have to be filed to declare for separate taxation at 20.315%. When a beneficiary has chosen a designated account with tax withholding (an account with tax withholding at the taxpayer's option), tax will be withheld at source at 20.315%. (As a general rule, tax filing is not necessary.)
- By filing a tax return, you can offset losses upon sale (capital losses) against capital gains from listed stocks, dividends etc. from listed stocks, and interest income from public and corporate bonds and such like (as long as separated taxation has been chosen upon declaration). In addition, gains on sale (capital gains), income distributions, and interest income from public and corporate bonds etc. (if separated taxation has been chosen upon declaration) can be offset against capital losses from listed stocks and such like.
- When investing through a Nippon Individual Savings Account (NISA), income gains and capital gains from the investments in Publicly-offered Equity Investment Trusts will be tax-free for five years if the investments have been newly purchased within 1.2 million yen per year. Investors need to meet certain conditions, such as aged 20 or above, having opened a tax-free account at a Distributor. In addition, when investing through a Junior NISA, income gains and capital gains from the investments in Publicly-offered Equity Investment Trusts will be tax-free for the next five years for those under 20 years old as long as the newly purchased investment amount is less than 0.8 million yen every year. For further details, please contact a Distributor.
- In cases of being applied to the foreign tax deduction, tax on distributions may differ from the aforementioned descriptions.
- The aforementioned descriptions do not apply to Japanese corporations.
- Above tax rates are as of April 8, 2021, so those may change in the event that tax laws are revised. We recommend that investors consult a tax or similar specialist for details of tax treatment.
