PART II. Information on the Fund

I. Description of the Fund

1. Nature of the Fund

(1) Objective and Basic Nature of the Fund

i) Objective of the Fund

The Fund seeks to achieve a Net Asset Value per Unit that closely correlates with the movement of the JPX-Nikkei Index 400 by investing in shares of the component stocks of the JPX-Nikkei Index 400, and building and maintaining, in principle, a portfolio constructed consistent with the calculation method of the JPX-Nikkei Index 400.

*The JPX-Nikkei Index 400 is a stock index of the top 400 stocks selected from among ordinary shares listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange's Prime Market, Standard Market and Growth Market. Selection of constituent stocks is based on 1) screening of eligibility criteria and market liquidity indicators, 2) quantitative indicator-based scoring (3 year average ROE, 3 year cumulative operating profit, market capitalization), and 3) qualitative factor-based scoring (appointment of independent outside directors, IFRS adoption, disclosure of earnings in English). The calculation method employs the closing price of August 30, 2013 as its base date, assigns a value of 10,000 as that day's market capitalization, and indexes market capitalization thereafter.

$$\text{JPX-Nikkei Index 400} = \frac{\text{Market capitalization of index at the time of calculation (JPY)}}{\text{Base date market capitalization (JPY)}} \times 10,000$$

Note: Market capitalization of index at the time of calculation is a total of the market value based on the number of shares of index for each issue.

- 16) The derivative transactions shall be such that the amount calculated in a reasonable manner pursuant to the rules of the Investment Trusts Association, Japan does not exceed the total net asset value of the trust asset.
- 17) Equity, debt, and derivative are the categories of exposures prescribed in the rules of The Investment Trusts Association, Japan. With regard to the exposures, in principle, the individual category's exposure to a certain interest counterparty, the kind of a counterparty prescribed in the rule, shall not exceed 10% of the total net asset value of the trust assets. And all the categories' exposure to a certain counterparty shall not exceed 20%. If the ratio exceeds the limit, the Management Company shall carry out adjustment to keep within the limit pursuant to the rules of The Investment Trusts Association, Japan.

ii) Statutory Restrictions on Investment

Investment in shares issued by one corporation (pursuant to the Act on Investment Trusts and Investment Corporations)

The Management Company does not engage in transactions that would cause the total number of one corporation's shares that are held in the investment trusts that it manages to represent more than half of the voting rights of the corporation's stock.

3. Investment Risks

(1) Risks of the Fund

Investment in the Fund involves certain risks, including major risks listed below. When subscribing the Units, the investor is requested to fully evaluate the risks pertaining to the Fund and make careful determination on investment.

- There is no guarantee of the investors' investment principal and a decrease in the Net Asset Value per Unit may result in losses or the investment principal falling below par. Any profit and loss resulting from the management of the Fund will be attributed to the investors (unitholders). Furthermore, please note that the Fund differs from deposits and savings.
- The Fund primarily invests in stocks (including depositary receipts; hereinafter the same). It is therefore possible that factors such as a decline in stock prices or deterioration of the financial conditions or performance of the issuer of the stock will cause the Net Asset Value per Unit to fall and result in a loss. Additionally, when investing in assets denominated in foreign currencies, the Fund may suffer losses as a result of exchange rate fluctuations.

Major risks of the Fund are as follows:

i) Price Fluctuation Risk

In general, stock prices fluctuate as they are affected by corporate information regarding the growth and profitability of a company and the change of such information. Furthermore, they also fluctuate due to factors such as economic and political conditions in Japan and abroad. There is a risk that the Fund will suffer material losses if unexpected changes occur in stock price movements or liquidity.

ii) Liquidity Risk

When the sizes of the market or trading volumes are small, the trading value at the time of acquisition or sale of securities may be influenced by the size of trading volumes. Thus, there is a risk that the securities cannot be traded at prices that are expected in light of the prevailing market trend, a risk that the securities cannot be sold at the appraised price, and a risk that the trading volume may be restricted regardless of how high or low the price is, and there is therefore a risk that unanticipated losses will be incurred.

iii) Credit Risk

- There is a general risk that the Fund will incur material losses in the event of a serious crisis that directly or indirectly affects the business of a corporation in which the Fund invests. Concerns over default and bankruptcies may result in a significant decline in the prices of the issuer's stocks (the price may drop to zero) and cause a decline in the Fund's Net Asset Value per Unit. Additionally, delisting of stocks may occur when falling short of certain standards stipulated by the financial instruments exchange and fear for delisting or occurrence of delisting may cause the price of stocks of the issuer to fall. There is therefore a risk that material losses will result in the Fund.
- The Fund may invest in short-term financial assets such as call loans or negotiable certificates of deposit and losses may be incurred as a result of a default by the party from whom they purchase. Such cases may cause a decline in the Net Asset Value per Unit.

iv) Foreign Exchange Rate Fluctuation Risk

In the case of assets denominated in foreign currencies, a decline in the Net Asset Value per Unit may occur if, in general, the yen becomes stronger than the currency of the asset.

v) Security-lending Risk

Acts such as lending of securities is accompanied by counterparty risks (i.e. risk of non-performance or cancellation of the loan agreement due to bankruptcy of the counterparties) and it is therefore possible that unanticipated losses will be incurred. When in response to non-performance or cancellation of the loan agreement liquidation procedures are implemented by using the collateral that is set aside in the loan agreement, the procurement cost of buying back the securities can surpass the collateral value, due to price fluctuations in the market. The Fund's payment of such shortfalls may cause the Fund to incur losses.

Major Reasons for Disparity between the JPX-Nikkei Index 400 and the Net Asset Value per Unit

Whereas the Fund seeks to match the rate of change of the Net Asset Value per Unit with that of the JPX-Nikkei Index 400, it does not guarantee movements that are identical to those of the index for the following reasons:

- The Fund may be subjected to a market impact when buying or selling individual stocks as it adjusts its portfolio in response to changes in the stocks that comprise the JPX-Nikkei Index 400 and capital changes among corporations. In addition, the Fund incurs various expenses, including trust fees, brokerage commissions and audit fees.
 - Dividends may be paid by stocks in the portfolio and fees may be earned for securities lending.
 - When derivative transactions such as futures trading are employed, the price change of such transaction and that of a part or all of the stocks that comprise the JPX-Nikkei Index 400 may not be identical.
- ◇ Disparity between the market prices at which stocks are traded at financial instruments exchanges and the Net Asset Value per Unit

The Fund is listed in the Tokyo Stock Exchange and the Units are traded on such exchange. The market price of the Units is affected primarily by the size of demand for the Fund, its performance, and how attractive it is to investors in comparison with their other investment alternatives. It is therefore not possible to predict whether the Units will sell in the market above or below the Net Asset Value per Unit.

Additional Considerations

- Matters concerning systemic risks and market risks

The securities markets and foreign exchange markets may shut down for various reasons, including a sudden change in the global economic conditions, a natural calamity, political turmoil, a change in economic conditions or a policy change in the country in which the markets operate, or an unexpected failure of a computer network. Such a shutdown may prevent the Fund from investing in accordance with its investment policy, and subscriptions. In the event of the above or where the computation of the Net Asset Value per Unit becomes difficult due to other matters, purchase and redemptions may temporarily be suspended at the discretion of the Management Company.

- Matters concerning movements in the Net Asset Value per Unit due to financial outflows from the Fund as a result of redemptions

If a large number of redemptions occur at once, the Fund may sell a large number of the securities it holds for the purpose of covering such redemptions all at once. This may cause a disparity between the appraised value and the actual trading value and the Fund's Net Asset Value per Unit may be subject to significant change.

- Matters concerning suspension of purchase and redemptions when there arises doubts as to the validity of the Net Asset Value per Unit

When there is a disparity between the appraised value used in calculating the Fund's Net Asset Value per Unit and the actual trading value or other such cases that give rise doubts as to the validity of the Net Asset Value per Unit, purchase and redemptions may be temporarily suspended at the discretion of the Management Company.

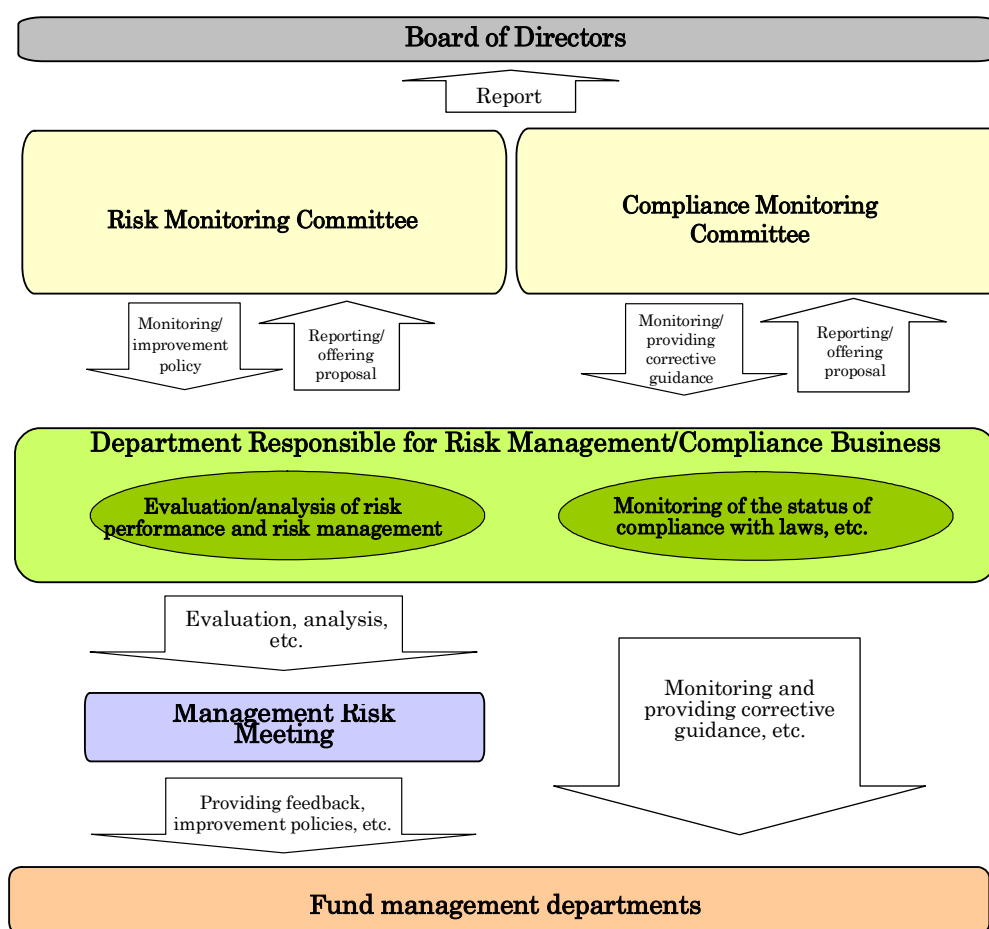

- Matters concerning restrictions on management and regulatory restrictions

Transactions are occasionally subject to restrictions under relevant laws and regulations or internal policies. For example, if the Management Company or an affiliate thereof receives undisclosed information regarding a particular stock, trading of the stock can be restricted. Additionally, transactions may also be restricted in connection with investments or other investment business engaged in by the Management Company or affiliates thereof. It is therefore possible that these restrictions will affect the Fund's management performance and cause a disparity between the index and the Net Asset Value per Unit.

- Matters concerning changes in laws, regulations, taxation systems, and accounting policies

Laws, regulations, taxation systems, accounting policies and such like that are applicable to the Fund may be subject to change in the future.

(2) Risk Control System

■ Overall Risk Management

The Risk Management/Compliance Business Departments of Nikko Asset Management have been established as independent organizations, separate from fund management departments or sales departments, and aim to centrally monitor and guide company-wide risk control activities. The Compliance Department, through the Compliance Monitoring Committee for which the department serves as its administrative office, provides the company's top management with reports on compliance with laws and regulations. And the Risk Management Department, through the Risk Monitoring Committee, provides the company's top management with reports regarding risk status. In addition, the reports are submitted to the board of directors at least once a year on the status of overall activities. Both Committees and the related segmental meetings endeavor to respond to serious problems and various risks, to establish preventive measures and to support constructing methods of control that can lead to reduced risks, in addition to monitoring laws and regulation compliance status, monitoring and reporting on various risks (including management risks (including liquidity risks), market risks, counterparty risks, operational risks (including administrative risks) and so on).

■ Evaluation and Analysis of the Investment and the Investment Risk Management

The investment status of the fund assets is evaluated and analyzed. The investment risk management status (including liquidity risks) is also monitored. The results of the evaluation and of the analyses on the investment performance and the investment risks are reported to the Management Risk Meeting and the investment risk management status (including liquidity risks) is reported to the Risk Monitoring Committee, and measures are taken to determine the cause of problems and to establish improvement strategies. Additionally, the outsourced fund management department administers the management of the funds managed by sub-managers and monitors whether investments of such funds are being made in accordance with investment policies.

■ Monitoring of Compliance with Laws and Regulations

Compliance related departments are responsible for ensuring that the investment is compliant with investment management laws, regulations and trust deeds. Any issues are reported to the compliance related committees, which adopt appropriate management and supervisory procedures to instruct fund management departments to rectify such problems when necessary.

* The system described above is current as of the end of January 2025, and may be subject to change in the future.

Furthermore, when the Management Company delegates businesses that fall under i) to vii) below, the expenses for delegation shall be included. However, taking into consideration the size of the trust assets, the Management Company may review the estimated rate of such expenses and change it up to an annual rate of 0.1% at the time of creation or during the term of the trust. The Management Company may reconsider whether to use the Actual Expense Method or the Estimated Method at any time during the trust term. i) Calculation of the Net Asset Value per Unit

- The Net Asset Value per Unit is computed on every business day of the Management Company.
- The Net Asset Value per Unit means an amount obtained by first calculating the total value of the trust assets by valuing individual assets that comprise the trust assets (excluding securities received in place of cash collateral and borrowed securities), deducting total liabilities from the total value, and finally dividing the difference (which is the total net assets) by the total number of Units outstanding on the date the calculation is made. Furthermore, the Fund may be shown in amounts that have been calculated per 10 units.

<Calculation of the Net Asset Value per Unit>

ii) Basis of Securities Evaluation

The assets that are in the trust assets are marked to market in accordance with laws and regulations, as well as the rules of The Investment Trusts Association, Japan.

<Valuation Method of Major Assets>

◇ Listed Domestic Stocks

As a general rule, these stocks are valued at their closing prices on the financial instruments exchanges of Japan on the day the Net Asset Value per Unit is calculated. The yen equivalents for assets denominated in foreign currencies (securities, deposits and other assets expressed in foreign currencies) are, in principle, calculated based on the mean of the rates vis-à-vis customers as of the calculation day in Japan.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the Trust Assets position of Listed Index Fund JPX-Nikkei Index 400 as of January 8, 2025, and its profit and loss performance for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Japan.

Basic for Opinion

Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements. We are independent of Nikko Asset Management Co., Ltd. and the Fund in accordance with the ethical requirements that are relevant to our audit of the financial statements in Japan, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

The other information

Information other than the financial statement and the auditor's report which are included in the annual securities report and the securities registration statement. It is management's responsibility to prepare and disclose the contents of the other information.

Audit opinion on the financial statement does not cover the other information, and the audit firm will not express any opinion regarding the other information.

The responsibility in the financial statement audit is to read the other information and, in doing so, identify material differences between the other information and the financial statement or with the knowledge obtained in the course of the audit, and attention should be paid to whether there are any indication of such material errors in the description other than material differences.

The audit firm is required to report if the other information is deemed to be materially misstated.

There are no matters to be reported by the audit firm with respect to the other information.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Japan, and to establish and operate for such internal control system as management determines is necessary to enable preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements that are free from material misstatements, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Fund's ability to continue as a going concern and disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion.

Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in Japan will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements. As part of an audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in Japan, we exercise professional judgement and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, while the purpose of the financial statement audit is not to express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal control.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Fund's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Fund to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate whether the presentation and disclosures of the financial statements are in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Japan, overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.
